2. Submit official transcripts directly to the graduate admissions office. Transcripts must reflect undergraduate and graduate degrees in nursing, a graduate GPA of 3.0 or higher on a 4.0 scale, and be from CCNE accredited institutions. The only exception to this for applicants who completed a RN to MSN program and did not earn a BSN.

3. Submit a current resume or CV.

4. Submit current RN and APRN licensure (if applicable). Students must meet one of the following criteria: (1) current national board certification as an Advanced Practice Registered Nurse, i.e. Nurse Practitioner, Clinical Nurse Specialist, Nurse Midwife or Nurse Anesthetist. Must submit proof of current national board certification. Note: APRNs will need to complete a total of 500 experiential engagement hours during the program OR (2) current employment in an advanced practice nursing specialty, i.e. nursing administration, executive leadership, health policy, informatics, or population health. Statement of Goals

Please respond to the following questions in a 750 word essay, typed and double spaced.

1. Why are you interested in pursuing doctoral education?

2. Why is the DNP important to you and how is the DNP consistent with your professional goals and objectives?

3. Describe a particular area of interest that you believe can be improved as a result of an evidence-based doctoral project. Please also include any other research areas of interest.

Since standardized test scores are not utilized as a criteria for admissions, your responses to these questions are important.

The DNP program faculty team wishes you the best in your quest to pursue doctoral education at Wilmington University!
FREQUENTLY ASKED QUESTIONS

1. What is the difference between a PhD program and a DNP program?

A doctor of philosophy (Ph.D.) is a research intensive doctoral degree. Research-focused programs are designed to prepare nurse scientists and scholars, and focus heavily on scientific content and research methodology. PhD programs typically require an original research project and the completion and defense of a dissertation. In contrast, a practice-focused doctoral program is designed to prepare experts in specialized advanced nursing practice. The focus is heavily on clinical practice, one that is "innovative and evidence-based, reflecting the application of credible research findings" (AACN, 2006, p. 3). Practice-focused doctoral programs require a practice application-oriented D.N.P. project rather than a knowledge-generating research effort (AACN, 2006, p. 3). The two types of doctoral programs differ in their goals and competencies, and hence, their coursework. However, they represent complementary approaches to the highest level of preparation in nursing. Both are considered terminal degrees in nursing, one in clinical practice, one in research, according to the AACN.

2. Will the DNP change the scope of practice for APRNs?

No, the scope of practice for advanced practice registered nurses will not change. Scope of practice is determined by state nurse practice acts that differ from state to state.

3. Will doctorally prepared advance practice registered nurses (NP, CRNA, CNS or CNM) confuse the public?

No. The title of doctor is common to many disciplines and is not the domain of any one group of health professionals. Many who practice as NP, CRNA, CNS or CNM currently hold doctoral degrees and frequently addressed as "doctors". Other health care providers are addressed as "doctor", including clinical psychologists, dentists, and podiatrists. APRNs should retain their specialist titles after completing a doctoral program.

4. Will DNP graduates be able to assume the nurse educator role in schools of nursing?

Yes, but the DNP degree does not prepare educators per se any more than a Ph.D. program does. Graduates from all doctoral programs (D.N.P. and Ph.D.) who want to teach in schools of nursing should have additional preparation that adds coursework in education to their base of clinical practice. It is important to remember that an expectation of faculty in terms of scholarship, i.e. - research and publications, and how scholarship is defined, varies widely across institutions.

5. What areas will I be able to work after graduation?

Students will primarily continue to work in the same healthcare areas where they are already employed. However, within the DNP program students will be exposed to a variety of other settings that can open new avenues of employment.
6. Does my graduate degree have to be in nursing?

   Yes, applicants should have an earned MSN from a CCNE accredited institution.

7. How long will it take me to complete the 33 credit hour program with 500-1,000 experiential engagement hours?

   The DNP Program is designed to be completed in 28 months. Core DNP courses will be completed prior to starting the DNP Project. The majority of experiential engagement time is devoted to development of the DNP Project at the end of the program. However, non-APRN s will need to complete additional experiential engagement time concurrently with DNP core courses. A total of 1,000 post-baccalaureate hours must be completed to earn the DNP.

8. What is the Course of Study and do I need to come to campus?

   The sequence for study is the same for the September OR January admission. The DNP program is available 100% online with no on-site requirements. Two to three virtual optional synchronous sessions are available during each course to facilitate interaction with the students and course faculty. Students have the option to present their final project in person or virtually. The course of study is available on the Wilmu website: http://www.wilmu.edu/health/dnp.aspx

9. Is there financial aid available?

   Yes, a significant number of our students utilize the Guaranteed Student Loan, which is based on need. The University’s Financial Aid Office http://www.wilmu.edu/financialaid/index.aspx can provide you with information about their loan program. Many students have benefited from this low interest program. Alternatively, several grants and scholarships are available through this website: http://www.doctorsofnursingpractice.org/resources/grants-and-scholarships/

10. Is the DNP Program accredited?

    Yes! Wilmington University's DNP program received the maximal accreditation term for a new program: 5 years. All nursing programs in the College of Health Professions are fully accredited by the Council for Certification of Nursing Education (CCNE).
11. Does the DNP Program accept transfer credits?

A maximum of six credits may be transferred into the program in doctoral-level courses that are deemed equivalent to the courses in the DNP program.

12. If for any reason, I need to withdraw from the program (financial, illness, etc.), would it be possible to re-enter the program without re-applying?

Students have a five-year time limit to complete the program. From time to time some students need to take a leave from the program and go on inactive status for a short period of time. Students must contact their faculty academic advisor if there is a deviation from their program of study including becoming inactive. If the student’s status is inactive for more than one year a new application only is required by WilmU policy. Students must then contact the Chair of the DNP program to discuss their status. Students who leave the program for an extended length of time may lose their spot; however, this is decided on a case-by-case basis. All students needing more than 5 years to complete their program of study must reapply for admission to the DNP Program. Exceptions to the 5-year policy can be made in extenuating circumstances.
