Innovative Education Master's Degree Customizable for Your Goals

WilmU's M.Ed. in Interdisciplinary Studies in Education features a forward-thinking design that lets you choose a combination of stackable graduate certificates to create your personalized degree. Choose from 55 possible combinations—each will build in-demand pedagogical skills to positively impact student learning and help you create up-to-date and culturally responsive learning environments.

Personalize your degree program by bundling two areas of distinction.

Construct your degree program by choosing two graduate certificate programs from a selection of 11 Areas of Distinction (listed on back). This degree offers multiple opportunities to advance your professional knowledge with in-demand skills, increase student growth, and expand your leadership abilities. A 3-credit "Data in Action" capstone course rounds out this master of education program.

Enjoy a flexible M.Ed. that accommodates your schedule.

This program allows you to advance your education while working full time. Choose face-to-face, hybrid or 100% online options to suit your needs. Seven-week course options provide added schedule flexibility.

Choose an education master's degree program endorsed by local education leaders.

"This program combines the best of both worlds . . . focus and expertise in one area while also having the opportunity to have a broader experience in an additional area within one degree."

— Dr. Peter Leida, Former Deputy Superintendent, Colonial School District

"The Areas of Distinction offered are well thought out and target some of the greatest needs that a school district possesses."

— Dr. Michael Brodzik, Superintendent, Pennsville School District
