

EdD in Organizational Leadership, Learning and Innovation

Lead and Inspire with the EdD in Organizational Leadership, Learning and Innovation

This interdisciplinary doctoral degree program in organizational leadership, available 100% online or in our F2F/Flex mode, will prepare you to lead learning and change initiatives at the organizational, team or individual level. Help your organization—or consult with others—in maintaining operational excellence through a culture of continuous learning, improvement and innovation.

Customize Your Doctoral Program Through a Choice of Concentrations

This affordable organizational leadership degree offers three concentrations that align with your professional goals. Choose from the Strategic Leadership or the Workplace Learning and Talent Development concentrations. Alternatively, candidates with defined learning objectives may work closely with faculty to actively design their own organizational leadership concentration.

Learn From and Alongside Engaged Learning Leaders

The OLI cohort model fosters collaboration among a community of global learners whose diverse experiences will enrich your study. You'll learn to conduct and translate research from faculty who are subject matter experts experienced in applying leading-edge practices to help organizations improve and innovate better and faster.

Hands-On Learning Builds Your Skills and Resumé

Employers value tangible work experience. You'll hone your skills and build your professional network through our summer institutes, a consulting field experience and an applied research dissertation project.
