

Earn credits toward a graduate degree —tuition-free!

Wilmington University's Teacher Development Project

provides Delaware educators the opportunity to explore graduate-level studies and further their careers by enrolling in approved master's degree programs. And to get started, we'll give you one class TUITION-FREE as our way of saying "thank you" to Delaware educators.

Course available: Advanced Studies in Teaching and Learning

Classes begin the week of July 3, 2023.

Designed to promote reflective and collaborative inquiry in a learning community, this course focuses on improving teaching, learning and student success as it forms a foundation for lifelong learning and professional growth.

Mark your calendar!

An orientation session is required for admission into this course. First, choose the most convenient date. Next, register for your Zoom orientation session by sending an email to Dr. Jennifer Palmer: jennifer.l.palmer@wilmu.edu

Orientation Sessions

held from 5:00-6:00 p.m. (Via Zoom)

Feb 21, 28

March 2, 7, 14

April 10, 13, 17

Note: Zoom link will be provided upon registration.

wilmu.edu/TeacherDevelopment

Course admission is limited.
ONLY 25 SEATS AVAILABLE.

Admission Requirements

You must:

- Be a licensed and certified Delaware educator.
- Attend an orientation session. (See dates below.)
- Submit a graduate application. (Application fee will be waived.)
- Attend a program advising session.

WilmU's Teacher Development Project

Earn 3 credits toward a Master's Degree in Education.

Complete 30 hours of professional development.

Gain a support network of other local educators.

For more information, contact:

Dr. Jennifer Palmer

jennifer.l.palmer@wilmu.edu

WILMINGTON
UNIVERSITY™

EDUCATION & LIBERAL ARTS